What is the ŠCEC

The ŠCEC is the logical evolution of the history, workings and, ultimately, essence of Arcipelago ŠCEC.

It is the physical manifestation of an agreement, taken by common citizens, businesses, craftspeople and farmers, professionals and Local Administrations, with the aim of promoting the local exchange of goods and services. This is done by accepting to be paid a quota of product and service prices in Local Vouchers.

These are printed, and distributed, by an Association, Arcipelago ŠCEC, on the basis of collectively-agreed, public, transparent criteria. Each member automatically acquires ownership of Local Vouchers, and is awarded ŠCEC free of charge, in the same amount as all other members. In exchange, he/she is asked only for a free contribution, which is used to pay printing and distribution costs.

The ŠCEC is a manifestation of trust. It is used together with Euros. In practical terms, its use amounts to a discount, thereby raising the spending power of participating households.

We can basically define the ŠCEC as a way to "keep the books" of community trust. A measurement of proactive solidarity, which circulates in the economy to everybody's benefit.

Graphically, the ŠCEC resembles normal, monetary, banknotes: this is merely for practical reasons, as it really is but a tool, a way to account for members' reciprocal willingness to give up a percentage of the retail price. For the same, practical, reasons, the conversion rate with the Euro is 1:1 (i.e. one ŠCEC equals one Euro) but, clearly, they can not be exchanged.

Upon joining the project, the "acceptor" – a producer, shop owner, craftsperson or professional – decides the percentage of Local Vouchers he/she will accept. Usually, this comes to 5 to 30% of the retail price.

All members, be they simple users or acceptors, receive 100 ŠCEC upon enrolling. Our common goal is to turn this into a periodical distribution, ultimately making it monthly. This will take place once the local circuits are strong enough to ensure and allow a constant, continual circulation of Local Vouchers.

The ŠCEC can also be used electronically, through a ContoŠCEC account. Electronic Local Vouchers will gradually comprise a consistent quota of the total circulation of wealth in a given area, with paper vouchers still used for promotional or social activities and for simple exchanges between private citizens.

A basic example of the SCEC can be used

A member purchases a product, or a service, from another member who accepts, for example, to be paid 20% of the price in ŠCEC.

Say the expense is 50 Euro: the member will pay 40 Euro and turn over 10 ŠCEC. This amount of ŠCEC represents a concrete manifestation of both parties' willingness to improve the way exchanges flow within the local community.

The member who accepted 10 ŠCEC knows he/she can count on the willingness of other shopkeepers, producers, craftspeople, professionals, who are part of Arcipelago, to give up a percentage of their profits in turn.

This circular mechanism is an expression of proactive, practical solidarity.

By providing for each other, with reciprocity, we are acting to put our common well-being in the center of the picture. This is an economic, but moreover a social goal.

One business' success thus becomes a success for the entire community, with everything flowing in circles – passions, interactions, and work.

Technology and ArcipelagoŠCEC

Any area is potentially rich enough, resourceful enough, to provide for its own and exchange surpluses with others. Nowadays, the best vehicle for such exchanges is internet technology.

Arcipelago has set up a number of IT tools designed to improve the circulation of goods, knowledge, products and services among members. In working with technology, we have attempted to provide absolute transparency, clarity, and user-friendliness.

The ŠCEC Platform is the gateway to Arcipelago. It contains constant updates on national and local activities and on the goings-on in the association, and contains all its IT tools.

The website's Service Area can be used to sign in, cooperate, learn about local initiatives, find out which companies and businesses accept ŠCEC and contact your local representatives.

ContoŠCEC: measures solidarity's progress. Each member has a ŠCEC "counter" and can access "account" services with ŠCEC. Don't think of it as a way of counting money, but rather as a tool to account for mutual trust. This is ŠCEC.

PuntoŠCEC: a physical venue (generally, a member, sometimes an association or public body) where it is possible to use the services of ContoŠCEC, change e-ŠCEC into paper ŠCEC and viceversa, make "payments" and "withdrawals".

Calculating and certifying transactions in payments partially made with ŠCEC

In Italy, in retail, prices given in shops generally include VAT.

In B2B, price lists do not, in general, include VAT.

This distinction means the % of ŠCEC must be calculated in two different ways, always in compliance with the statement issued by the Internal Revenue Agency in response to our query on fiscal matters, as follows:

From the answer to our query to the Internal Revenue Agency, n° 954-625/2009

After clarification as to the applicable law, the undersigned considers the operation described in this query to present the features of "unconditional discount", assuming the characteristics of a price discount for the client, without posing any further condition nor against the provision of any kind of service.

In light of the possibility of using the vouchers in question as a tool for unconditional discounting, it is the case that only a part of the retail price is actually cashed in by the members of this association, as the remainder is covered by a discount equal to the amount of "ŠCEC" vouchers spent by consumers.

In conclusion, it is our shared opinion that:

1) as for direct taxes, received vouchers are "passive reductions", considered to be a decrease in profits for the period in question, as per Art. 1425Bis of the civil code. The same article can be referred to for the assessment of taxable income as per Art. 83 of the TUIR [Consolidated Act on Income Tax] (these would, conversely, be considered "active reductions" if discounts are obtained for the purchase of goods or services acquired for business purposes);

2)as for VAT, only the monetary amounts received for the provision of goods or supplies should be invoiced, as per Art. 13, comma 1 of the aforementioned Presidential Decree No. 633 of 1972.

1 - RETAIL

As aforementioned, prices of retail goods are, generally, "Inclusive of VAT".

EXAMPLE: A CORRECT RECEIPT

Retail price Euro 120.00

Including VAT (VAT 20%) - Accepting 10 % SCEC

Euro 120.00 - 10% ŠCEC (12 ŠCEC)

Euro cashed in: 108.00 (Total receipt, pay slip or invoice) + ŠCEC collected 12.00

2 - BUSINESS TO BUSINESS

As aforementioned, company price lists are, in general, "Net of VAT".

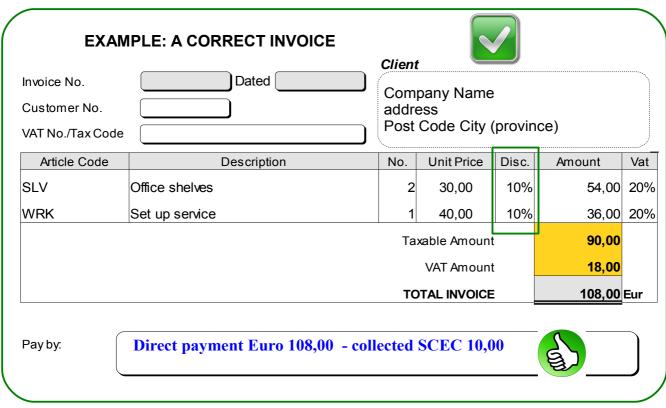

In this case, taxable amounts, upon which VAT is to be added, will be lower by an amount equal to the % of ŠCEC discount.

To calculate the % of ŠCEC to be collected, consider the following:

* Taxable Sales Price Euro 100.00 before applying VAT (VAT 20%) - ŠCEC Accepted 10%

Euro 100.00 - 10% ŠCEC (10 ŠCEC) = taxable amount: 90.00 + 18.00 IVA = Euro cashed in: 108.00 (Total invoice) and ŠCEC collected 10.00

EXAMPLE: AN INCORRECT INVOICE

	Client
Invoice No. Customer No. VAT no./Tax Code	Company Name Address Post Code City (Province)
Article Code	Description	No.	Unit price	Disc.	Amount	Vat
SLV	Office shelves	2	30,00		60,00	20%
WRK	Set-up service	1	40,00		40,00	20%
	TAXABLE AMOUNT				100,00
			VAT	-	20,00
		TOTAL INVOICE			120,00 Eur
	SCEC DISCOUNT 10%
Payment Expires on:	Direct payment Euro 108,00 + collected SCEC 12,00

NOTE: The difference between the amount of ŠCEC collected by the retail shop and those collected by the wholesale store is due to the fact that, in retail, the discount is calculated on gross price (including VAT) while in wholesale is it calculated on net price (VAT-free). There is no difference with regards to taxes: both declare the same profit and pay the same amount of VAT.
